

I support allowing cell phone use aboard airborne aircraft. Particularly since there is no technical data which indicates that cell phones, or any other personal electronic device for that matter, interferes with aircraft avionics systems. The airlines are who should be deciding whether to allow cell phone use based on their own policies.